

Check Out Our New H2OExcel Micro-Site!

We invite you to check out our newly launched H2OExcel™ micro-site, filled with important information about our natural, proprietary water conservation agent H2OExcel. You can access the H2OExcel page directly by visiting brookside-agra.com/h2oexcel.

New H2OExcel Animated Video

The new H2OExcel micro-site features our new, animated video that illustrates the importance of microbiology in soil health and crop production, and demonstrates how H2OExcel works naturally to supercharge biological activity and defend against plant disease and dehydration.

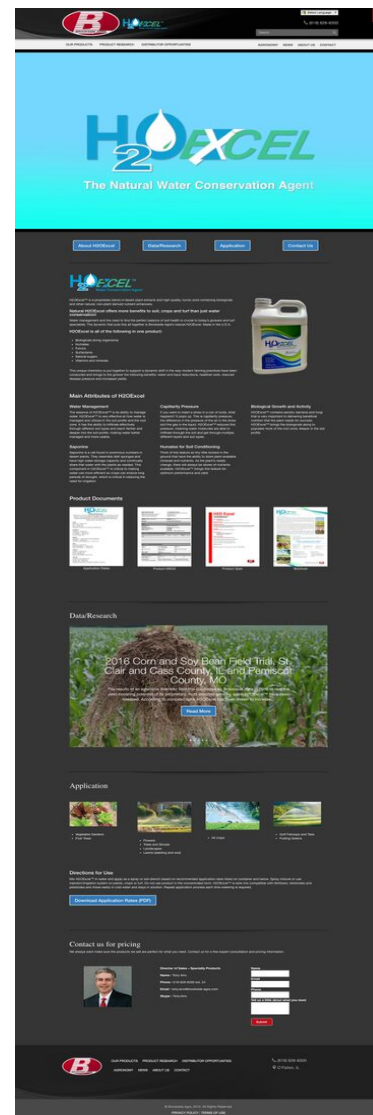

H2OExcel Data and Research

Click on the Data/Research tab and you can read about the multiple, independent research studies and field trials conducted on H2OExcel. You'll also see detailed results of a 2015 Alfalfa Field Trial in Washington County, IL; 2013 Purdue University Turf Study; 2013 University of Central Missouri Tomato Plant Study; 2013 University of Central Missouri Soybean Study; and 2016 Corn and Soybean Field Trials in Illinois and Missouri.

H2OExcel Application Rates

We make using H2OExcel simple by providing you with comprehensive, downloadable application rates for corn, soybeans, wheat, milo, canola, cotton, turf grass, vegetable crops, citrus trees and potted plants, and for use as a digester after harvest and for hydroseeding.

For more information about H2OExcel, visit brookside-agra.com/h2oexcel or contact Tony Arro, Director of Sales - Specialty Products, at 618-628-8300 ext. 24 or tony.arro@brookside-agra.com.
